Pathway on Positionality

Thank you for being here!

Welcome to a community of people who are motivated to create cohesion through courageous conversations. We hope that these MOSAIC Pathways will support you to have healthy conversations about complex topics, so that we can collectively move closer to a more peaceful and inclusive society.

We know how busy life can get and that it can be difficult to find the time to be fully prepared for these conversations. Our team has designed this pathway as one possible way to structure a conversation around this topic. We welcome your feedback and suggested changes for this pathway, and any ideas you have for other pathway topics.

Introduction

This pathway aims to help participants grasp the concept of Positionality, framing it as understanding 'who they are in relation to others'. The conversations will help participants develop their self-awareness and empathy by reflecting on their unique social and cultural context and how it impacts the way they perceive and interact with the world.

Learning about Positionality helps young people understand what shapes them and how their experiences can differ from others based on their identity and social background. Participants will also consider how their identities may create access or barriers to resources in society. The goal is to create a space where users, aged 12 and above can reflect on their own positions and engage in conversations that promote empathy and understanding.

Setting up the Conversation

Before getting stuck into the conversation, think how you might create a space that encourages open dialogue, vulnerability with purpose, and constructive engagement, where everyone involved feels empowered to share their experience without fear of judgment.

We encourage appropriate ice breaker and safety check out activities. We believe alongside those activities that this pathway can range in time from 1.5 hours to 3 hours.

Please consider further exploration through the Allyship and Building Cohesion pathways.

BEFORE YOU START: “Positionality refers to the how differences in social position and power shape identities and access in society. Citing a few key definitions of positionality, Misawa (2010, p. 26) emphasizes the fluid and relational qualities of social identity formation while also noting that “all parts of our identities are shaped by socially constructed positions and memberships to which we belong” and which are “embedded in our society as a system.”

Pascua Yaqui/Chicana scholar M. Duarte (2017, p. 135) describes positionality as a methodology that “requires researchers to identify their own degrees of privilege through factors of race, class, educational attainment, income, ability, gender, and citizenship, among others” for the purpose of analyzing and acting from one’s social position “in an unjust world.”

In acknowledging positionality, we also acknowledge intersecting social locations and complex power dynamics. Therefore, our approach to classroom climate is also grounded in analysis of intersectionality, a concept arising out of Black feminist legal studies and critical race theories. Hill Collins (2001, p. 18) writes:

Intersectionality refers to particular forms of intersecting oppressions, for example, intersections of race and gender, or of sexuality and nation. Intersectional paradigms remind us that oppression cannot be reduced to one fundamental type, and that oppressions work together in producing injustice.” (from Indigenous Initiative CTLT, University of British Columbia) <https://indigenousinitiatives.ctlit.ubc.ca/classroom-climate/positionality-and-intersectionality/>

CREATING A SAFE AND ACCOUNTABLE SPACE:

1. Acknowledge Diverse Experiences: Begin by acknowledging the diverse experiences present in the room. Everyone brings unique perspectives shaped by their backgrounds, identities, and lived experiences. This recognition lays the foundation for understanding and empathy.
2. Variation in Knowledge Levels: Recognise the varying levels of knowledge about the topic. Some participants may be well-informed, while others may be exploring these concepts for the first time. Encourage an open mind and an attitude of curiosity for learning from one another.
3. Sharing Personal Stories: Emphasise the importance of sharing personal stories, which can humanise the discussion and deepen understanding. Participants should feel empowered to share their experiences, knowing that doing so enriches the conversation.
4. Ground Rules for Support: Establish ground rules for supporting each other throughout the conversation. Encourage active listening, empathy, and validation. Create a space where participants can express their thoughts and feelings without fear of judgement.
5. Checking Comfort Levels: Set guidelines for checking in on comfort levels. Acknowledge that discussions around these topics can evoke strong emotions. Encourage participants to communicate when they need a pause or additional support.
 - a. Check-in with Young Indigenous & People of Colour: Recognise that these topics/conversations may be more personal for young people of colour. Consider checking in with them individually before the session to gauge their comfort levels and address any concerns. During the conversation, be attentive to their reactions and provide opportunities for them to share or opt-out as needed.
 - b. Addressing Power Dynamics: Be mindful of power dynamics within the group. Ensure that everyone has an opportunity to speak, and actively intervene if dominant voices overpower marginalised perspectives. Facilitate with an understanding of the intersectionality of identities and how they contribute to varied experiences of discrimination.

6. Respecting Dissenting Views: Acknowledge the potential for differing opinions and viewpoints. Create an environment where dissenting views are acknowledged and discussed constructively through respectful dialogue.

However, dissenting views do not mean participants are entitled to express views that are violent, discriminatory, or question the existence of other people. Respect for differing views does not include tolerating hateful and harmful speech. Ensure that conversations remain within the bounds of respectful communication, within an atmosphere where participants feel safe and valued. Encourage discussions that promote understanding rather than perpetuating harm and address any language or behaviour that may be harmful or disrespectful to others.

SUPPORT AND CARE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE:

1. Recognise Vulnerability: Understand that young people, especially those from marginalised communities, may feel vulnerable discussing these topics. Create an atmosphere that respects and values their emotions and perspectives.

2. Provide Resources for Support: Offer resources and information for additional support. Encourage participants to seek help if needed, offer a post workshop support sheet.
3. Empower Through Education: Empower young people through education. Provide resources that help build resilience and self-esteem. Highlight positive stories and examples of resilience within their communities.
4. Anti-Racist Practice: Incorporate anti-racist principles into facilitation by emphasising the importance of dismantling racist structures and promoting inclusivity. Encourage young people to explore how they can actively contribute to anti-racist practices in their lives and build a sense of collective responsibility in creating a more equitable and just society.
5. Encourage Allyship: Encourage participants to support one another, learn from shared experiences, and work together towards a more inclusive and equitable future.

The Conversation

A. Getting started

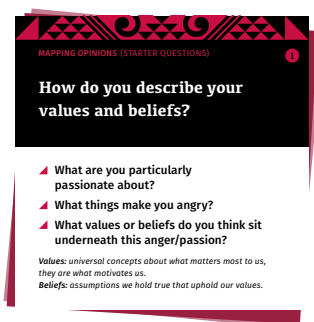

Begin the session with a light icebreaker to create a comfortable atmosphere e.g. ask each participant to share three aspects that they believe define who they are. Encourage them to consider personal experiences, cultural influences, and any other factors that come to mind.

The sequence is designed to progressively deepen participants' insights into positionality, moving from introspective questions to thinking about external influences, and ending with reflections on the impact of understanding diverse positionalities.

WHAT MAKES YOU, YOU?

This question begins exploring positionality by inviting participants to share aspects of themselves, introducing the concept of personal identity.

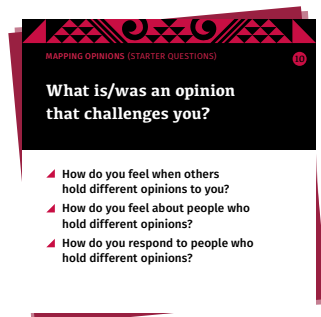

CARD 1: HOW DO YOU DESCRIBE YOUR VALUES AND BELIEFS?

This card helps participants connect and understand how their personal values and beliefs shape positionality.

B. Getting deeper

CARD 10: WHAT IS AN OPINION THAT CHALLENGES YOU?

Encourage participants to confront differing opinions and explore the values and beliefs behind these perspectives.

HOW DO YOU FEEL WHEN OTHERS HOLD DIFFERENT OPINIONS FROM YOU?

This question prompts participants to reflect on their emotional responses when faced with differing opinions. This discussion highlights how positionality can impact the way we react to diverse opinions.

CARD 6: WHO OR WHAT INFLUENCES YOUR WORLDVIEW?

Invite participants to explore what external factors shape their individual perspectives and positionality and encourage reflection on potential influences to remove or embrace.

CAN YOU THINK OF A TIME WHEN YOUR IDENTITY INFLUENCED THE WAY YOU WERE PERCEIVED OR TREATED?

This question helps uncover instances where identity has impacted personal interactions and perceptions, broadening the understanding of positionality.

HOW MIGHT SOMEONE WITH A DIFFERENT CULTURAL, ETHNIC, GENDER, ETC., BACKGROUND PERCEIVE A COMMON SITUATION COMPARED TO YOU?

This question asks participants to consider the impact of positionality on perceptions, fostering empathy and highlighting the diverse lenses through which individuals view common situations.

C. Wrapping up

CAN YOU THINK OF A TIME WHEN UNDERSTANDING SOMEONE ELSE'S POSITIONALITY CHANGED YOUR PERSPECTIVE OR ACTIONS?

Encourage participants to identify times where awareness of others' positionality changed their own viewpoints or behaviour. This discussion highlights that positionality is dynamic and has the potential to change perspectives by understanding others' experiences.

Here are some questions to help you reflect on the conversation you've just had.

- What are some key learnings/takeaways?
How might these be shared with others and in what settings?
- How has this Pathway impacted your understanding of positionality?
- How might you apply your experience of this Pathway conversation?
